Old Stories, New Doors

What five winters of A Christmas Carol VR taught us about classic IP

Alex Coulombe
CEO, Agile Lens: Immersive Design

ACT I · 1 / 3

Every Beloved Story Hits the Same Ceiling.

The run ends. The season closes. The house only has so many seats. The audience that loves it is getting older, and the next one needs a new way in.

Classic IP needs new audiences and new revenue beyond the stage and the screen.

ACT I · THE CEILING

It Started as a Small Ask

Originally produced in association with Actors Theatre of Louisville · 2021

- Actors Theatre of Louisville asked us for production assets: digital characters and some video.
- We came back with a bigger idea: a full live production of A Christmas Carol, in VR.
- They said yes, then gave us their blessing to remount it every year.

ACT I · THE CEILING

A Christmas Carol VR

Live actors. Live audiences. One shared virtual stage.

- Live actors with face and full-body capture perform on the streets of a virtual Victorian London
- Fully remote: actors, crew and audience each join from wherever they are
- Five holiday seasons, 2021–2025 · The final run, December 2025: 15 performances

ACT I · THE CEILING

How Audiences Experienced It

Not watching a story. Standing inside one.

- Eye contact: the actor sees you, and plays the scene to you
- AI Dickens, a digital host voiced with the lead actor's permission, welcomes guests before curtain
- After the show, a live Q&A with the actors

In Their Words

Raindance Immersive 2025 nominee, Best Immersive Theatre · Audience comments as published on xmascarolvr.com, 2021–2025

"WOW doesn't even come close to describing what I just experienced! I haven't enjoyed 'A Christmas Carol' this much in years."

Robert Copelan, audience
xmascarolvr.com · 2024

"Each year, Agile Lens is like pushing the edge for what's next."

Kent Bye
Voices of VR podcast · 2025

"A Christmas Carol VR is a masterclass in acting"

Raindance Immersive 2025 judges
as quoted on xmascarolvr.com · 2025

"We're extremely curious to see what Agile Lens and their creators do next with theatre in VR"

Ian Hamilton
UploadVR, editorial · 2025

"I sat on that bench and looked up at Scrooge... and [he] emotionally spoke, of me... It felt remarkable!"

Chuck Webster, MD, audience
xmascarolvr.com · 2024

"This was a working glimpse into the future of VR as a medium for Real Time Live Production."

Jimmy6DOF, audience
xmascarolvr.com · 2021

"It was fascinating to see the affordances of VR used in this way. I'd love to see more VR plays done like this."

Claren Naïlo, audience
xmascarolvr.com · 2024

"Agile Lens represents a model of artistry that transcends mediums and time zones alike."

Siobhan Greene, Instinctively Real Media
the show's media sponsor · 2025

"The evolution of this show over the years is remarkable and the performances are top shelf!"

Stephen Butchko, audience
xmascarolvr.com · 2025

"Quite enjoyed catching the opening night of this. The world needs more live VR performances!"

Nick Suda, audience

ACT I · THE CEILING

What It Proved About Classic IP

Five winters, three lessons

- A story audiences already love lowers the barrier to a brand-new format
- A live show without a building: the house can be anywhere
- The value outlived the run: characters, sets, an AI host and live-performance tools we reuse

ACT I · THE CEILING

The Run Ended. The Performance Didn’t.

December 2025: our replay and film tools

- Performances recorded with their motion capture, cues and spatial audio
- Replay from any position, on a scrub timeline: review it like dailies
- A cinematographer build shoots new camera coverage of a show that’s already over: see it in our demo area
- The same tools now run our RSC rehearsal R&D and our Stage Presence toolkit

ACT II · OTHER STAGES

Royal Shakespeare Company

Virtual rehearsal tools, developed with the RSC

- Actors rehearse in a 1:1 scan of the Swan Theatre; directors follow along from a laptop
- Built with theater people, for theater people: the script stays in your hand, like paper
- An R&D grant with XR Network+, 2024–2025: tested with drama students, shown in Stratford

What Kind of Partnerships Are We Looking For?

Two kinds. Both start with a story you already own or produce.

1 · IP-extension partnerships

With producers and rights holders

Bring the story. We'll build the way in.

An immersive edition of a world audiences already love: live, location-based, or at home

2 · Co-productions from day one

Immersive inside the financing and distribution plan

In the plan, not bolted on after.

Budgeted with the production: new windows, new audiences, assets that carry across formats

How we start

One story.
One audience.
One prototype.

A short, paid prototype of a single audience moment, then a production plan you can finance

The curtain comes down.
The story doesn’t have to.
